

From: John Marshall
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/16/01 11:02am
Subject: Microsoft settlement stifles independent innovation in the computer industry

The settlement does not remove Microsoft's ability to stifle and halt innovation.

The source entry points should be made public.

A stripped version of Windows should be made available for purchase so users can install what they want.

The requirement of 1million units for a third party to have their software added it too onerous.

John Marshall
4218 Beresford Way
La Canada, Calif. 91011
John Marshall
john@jwmarshall.com
818 790 7700
877 720 7730